

Being an AFGE Retiree Coordinator allows me to interact with locals to convince them the importance of maintaining their retirees as members once they retire. It is a great opportunity to stay involved in the labor movement and provide valuable services to the locals and their membership.

I'm retired but I still believe we're all in this together. So I'm continuing to fight for government employees – active and retired – and the services we deliver for America every day.

AFGE needs active retirees. When we stay involved it strengthens AFGE's political clout on Capitol Hill – and we need that power now more than ever.

Your partnership with AFGE doesn't have to end when you retire.

AFGE Retirees are front and center in our efforts to honor and defend government employees – both active and retired. That means advocating for a productive, healthy and secure retirement as well as good jobs, pay, and benefits for those who are still working.

You worked hard all your life, and you have helped make AFGE strong enough to stand up for working people. We need your lifetime of experience to strengthen our union and continue to serve our communities and our country.
